The Rathbone Sisters indulged in a "pleasure exertion" at Willoughby Lake, Thursday, and Mr. J. G. Turnbull was quite gallant in volunteering the use of his launch. Only a part of the company were taken out the first trip, but when they returned to the landing they had enjoyed the ride so much that they desired to go again. All were settling down to the enjoyment of the second voyage when suddenly the propelling mechanism of the boat balked up, and in spite of the tinkering of Capt. Turnbull, refused to budge. Imagine the dilemma, kind reader—a boatful of frightened females and only one man! The sea was choppy but the little rowboat in tow was their only means of salvation; therefore the passengers were rowed ashore. The next problem that faced Mr. Turnbull was as to how he would get his launch to its moorings. As he couldn't row it in he had to jump overboard (the water, fortunately, not being so deep but that he could walk on the bottom) and made to the shore, pulling the schooner after him. The Rathbone Sisters are very much obliged but the Captain says, "Taint worth mentioning" so we hope our readers won't repeat this while swapping gossip.

For many years E. W. Young has lain on an invalid's bed. The visit of a brother member of Zion Lodge is to him like a ray of sunshine on a rainy day. Asked recently to give an account of his Masonic experience, the following are his own words as nearly as can be remembered: "I was 'raised' in Clyde Lodge, No. 76, F. & A. M., in the town of West Charleston, Orleans county, Vermont, March, 1887. At the time the cost was only twenty-five dollars, but now it is fifty. The river Clyde runs through the town and the lodge was named after it. In 1870 I located in Detroit, and in 1871 affiliated with Zion Lodge. As I look back for 35 years, I can see many changes, both in the personnel of the lodge and the interest in work, but every year Old Zion grows dearer and dearer to me. I cannot attend the lodge in person, but I am always with it in spirit, and have not yet given up hope that some day I will yet see the smiling countenances of my brothers in the lodge room. "After traveling for 35 years due east, I am here lying helpless on my back, right in the prime of life, having spent a fortune to get relief. Now my money is all gone, and I am here just the same, and I intend to keep up my courage and am firm in the hope that some day I may be able to visit the lodge again. I watch for the Zion News every month. It is a great help and comfort to me, for the news the brothers forget to tell me I can get through our bright little paper."
